Why

his?

“He himself bore our sins” in his body on the cross, so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness; “by his wounds you have been healed.”

1 Peter 2:24

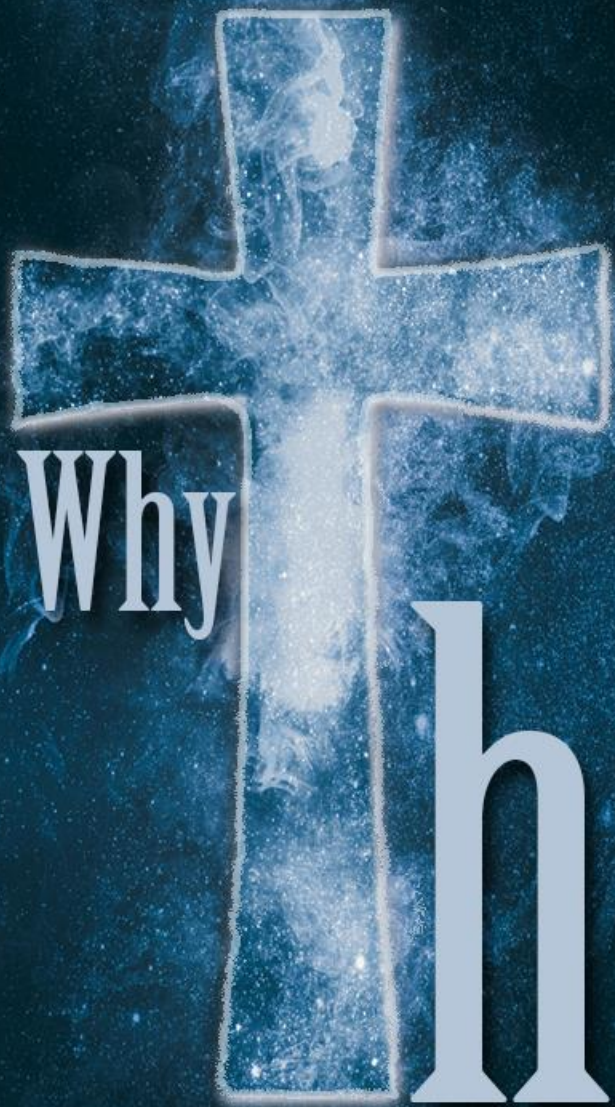

A glowing cross is positioned on the left side of the image, set against a dark blue, textured background. The cross is composed of a vertical and a horizontal bar, both of which are filled with a bright, shimmering light that creates a sense of depth and radiance. The light from the cross illuminates the surrounding dark blue area, creating a soft glow and highlighting the fine, grainy texture of the background. The overall effect is one of spiritual significance and enduring value.

The more something costs, the more it hurts to break it, lose it, see it abused or taken for granted

Why

his?

Surely he took up our pain and bore our suffering, yet we considered him punished by God, stricken by him, and afflicted.

But he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that brought us peace was on him, and by his wounds we are healed.

Isaiah 53:4-5

It is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.

Hebrews 10:4

He should pay!

DEBT

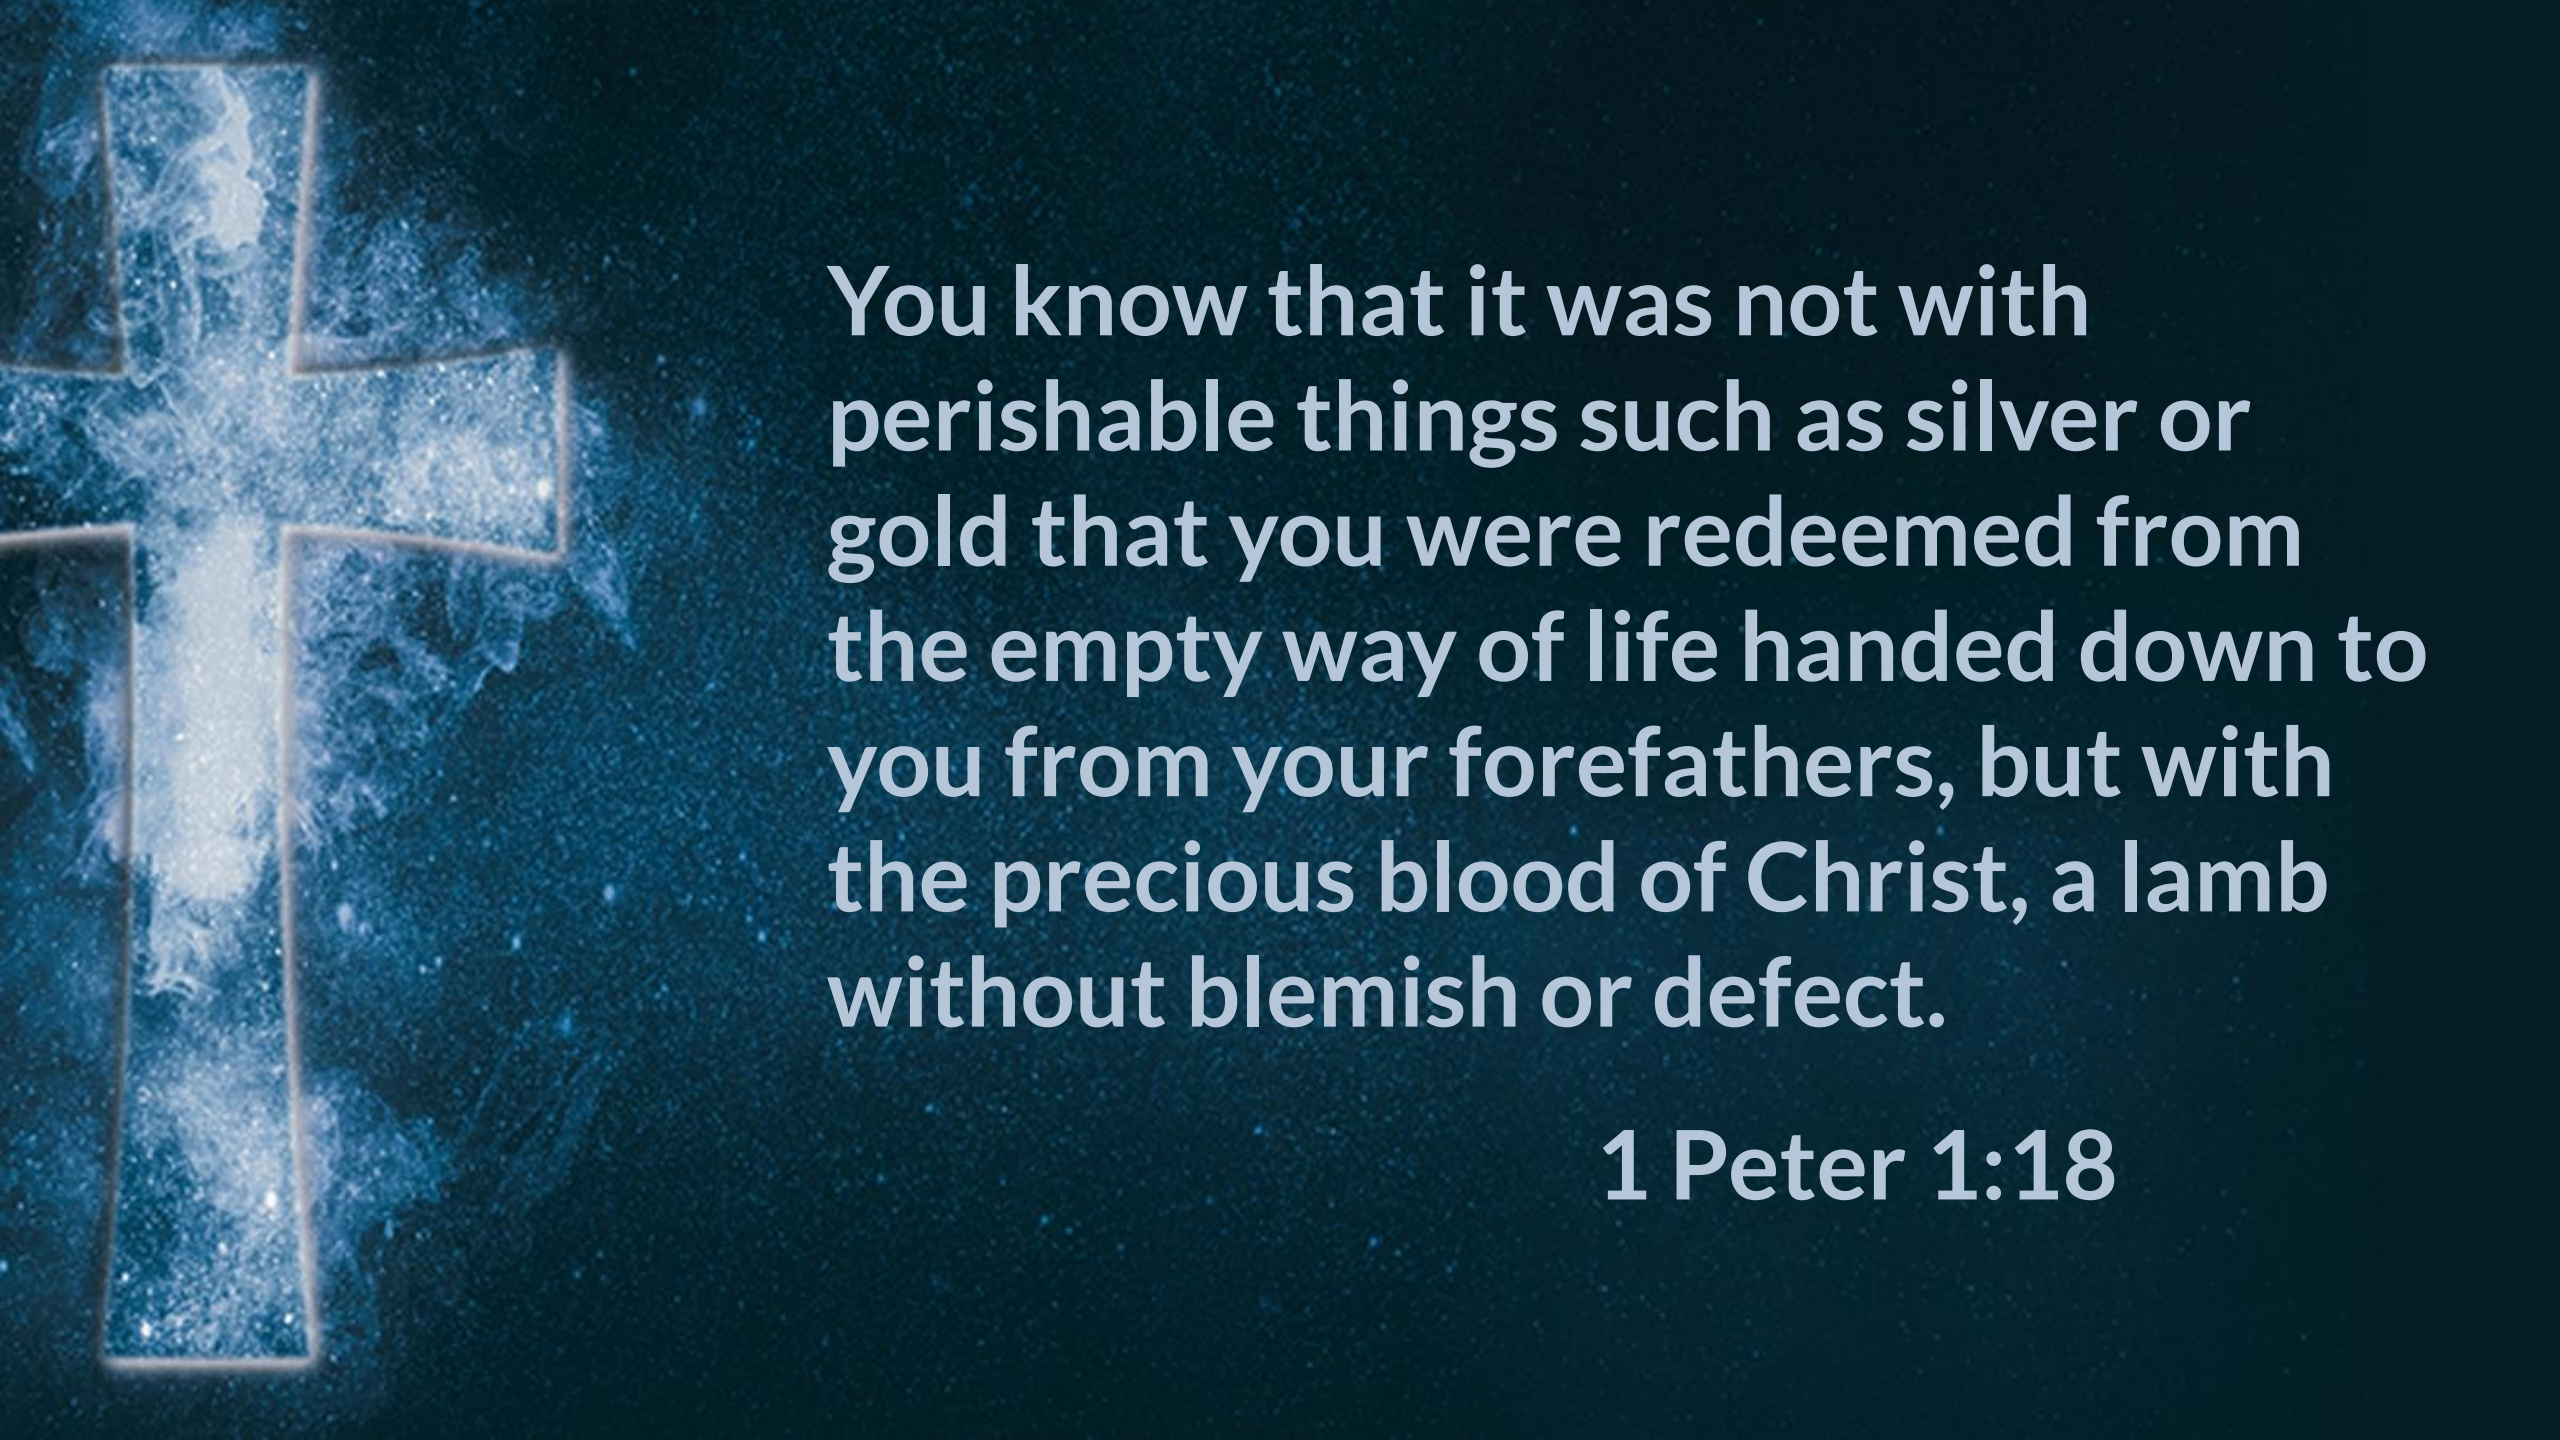

What God does supremely in Jesus on the cross, is what all of us do when we forgive. God absorbs the pain. God bears the shame. God swallows the anger and opens up the divine arms to us again. Anyone who asks, 'Why doesn't God just forgive? Why does anyone have to suffer—Jesus or anyone else?' has never forgiven a serious offense. Forgiveness costs the forgiver.

John Stackhouse

A glowing cross is positioned on the left side of the image, set against a dark blue background with a subtle, starry or nebula-like texture. The cross itself is bright and appears to be made of a shimmering, crystalline material. The text is positioned to the right of the cross, centered vertically.

You know that it was not with perishable things such as silver or gold that you were redeemed from the empty way of life handed down to you from your forefathers, but with the precious blood of Christ, a lamb without blemish or defect.

1 Peter 1:18

Consider Jesus paying your debt by dying on the cross for your sin.

What do you feel?

What do you want to say to him?

Is there any sin you wish to confess?

Almighty God, our heavenly Father,
we have sinned against you and against our neighbour
in thought and word and deed,
through negligence, through weakness,
through our own deliberate fault.
We are truly sorry
and repent of all our sins.

For the sake of your Son Jesus Christ,
who died for us,
forgive us all that is past and grant that we may serve you in newness of life
to the glory of your name.
